La Cipollina is Reviewed by The New York Times on Sunday 7/5/09

The New York Times states La Cipollina has “restorative properties”, “its restorative properties could be attributed to the element of surprise, giving the restaurant accolades for bringing New York City to Central New Jersey.

Karla Cook of the New York Times, after “two lovely dinners”, hails La Cipollina “an Italian hideaway for restorative fare”, in her July 5th New York Times review. She goes on to describe the “weekend service as unfailingly and impressively professional.”

Ms. Cook said of our steak ...”rivals the famed steaks of Peter Ligers of Brooklyn.” In addition she gave special praise to the following items... Pork Belly, Eggplant Caponata, Penne Arriabiata, Fresh Mozzarella, Eggplant Rollatini, Escargot, Pork Special, Escarole Monachina, Asparagus Parmigiano, Pana Cotta and Chocolate Pecan Torte.

Chef Matt Higgins was given special praise for “using fresh ingredients in a well conceived combination, all included with a touch of playfulness.”

Ms. Cook made special note as La Cipollina being “lively and studded with regulars.”
